ABOUT ME

Junior frontend developer with a year of hands-on experience and in-depth knowledge gained from two years of specialized courses where I held leadership positions. I have solid skills in web development tools and am keen to constantly develop and learn new technologies. I am completing a Bachelor's degree in Economics and Informatics, which gives me a unique combination of technical and analytical skills. Work well in a team environment, have strong communication skills and strive to achieve common goals. Seeking an opportunity to apply my knowledge and skills in a dynamic and innovative company where I can make meaningful contributions to the development of quality web applications.
